COURSE IN AURAL CARE

Clear Ears Course in Aural Care was the first course in Australia for micro suction and curettage technique for earwax removal. Designed for experienced Audiologists, GPs and Registered Nurses, Clear Ears Course in Aural Care is based on the UK Aural Care Certificate, with permission from the Department of Otolaryngology, Stoke Mandeville Hospital, and adapted to Australian standards with assistance from ENT Surgeons and Audiologists. Clear Ears have worked with world-leading blended and digital design experts from Deakin University to develop an online digital learning hub to enable access to training at a time and location convenient for you.

The course features interactive training activities that give you the opportunity to practise techniques while we step you through each procedure in your own simulation environment. This allows you to stop, practice and repeat as many times as you need to. The course has two streams Theoretical and Practical each one available for completion within a maximum of six weeks from commencement date.

Theoretical Certification - $1320 incl GST

On completion of the Theoretical Certification, you will have completed a nominal 40 hours of theoretical training in:

- Advanced ear anatomy, physiology and pathophysiology
- Safely and competently practicing the techniques of micro-suction and curettage to remove cerumen
- Identifying abnormalities that require referral to a medical practitioner
- Providing basic disease management and postoperative management in conjunction with an ENT

The theoretical course includes access to case studies, discussion forums and additional resources.

Practical Certification - $1650 incl GST

The Practical Certification confirms that the theoretical and practical components of the Clear Ears Course in Aural Care have been successfully completed.

In addition to the above theoretical component, the practical component provides assessment of application of learning and techniques through submission of case logs as well as an opportunity to receive feedback from our experts, representing a further nominal 20 hours of practical application.

Note: These hours may vary dependent on experience as the course has built in intuitive Recognition of Prior Learning
