

eAUDIOLOGY

Tele-audiology has emerged within the field of audiology, offering great potential to alter existing service delivery models and improve overall access to services. This introductory course will cover key topics including: A current definition of tele-audiology and understanding of the related terminology, information on the advancements in policy and key practice change considerations, and discussion around the methods and modalities of service delivery, technological advancements, and clinical implementation factors.

Presenter:

Dr. Danielle Glista

Research Associate and Adjunct Research Professor at the National Centre for Audiology at Western University, London, Ontario, Canada

Learn anytime, anywhere.

Phonak e-Learning is a convenient content delivery platform. Once registered on the Phonak Pro website, users can access pre-recorded video sessions at a time that suits them.

Endorsement:

This Phonak e-Learn session is professionally endorsed:

- ACAud Endorsed: CEP201813 (1 CEP pt)
- AudA Endorsed: CPD1718 138 (Category 1.2; 1 CPD pt)
- HAASA Endorsed: CPED2018-2020(19062018) (1 CPED pt)

Access to the recorded session:

There is no cost involved. Simply click the link below to access the recorded session presented by Dr Danielle Glista.

Watch it now

PHONAK
life is on